

Andrie Amor

11/8/24

Business Redesign Self Eval

I would say I contributed an equal amount and did a good job on this project. I believe I did a respectable 50% of the work. I took initiative on most of the pages with clothing content, which includes the tops, bottoms, outerwear, and accessories pages. While I started most of the pages, Nolan and I would work together by having me create the layout of the page, then he would go through and make everything look right and proper. I believe my biggest contribution was the navbar because it is included in all of the pages and took a while to get it to sit properly for each unique page. I believe the way we structured our teamwork was really efficient in terms of keeping the workload equal, whenever one person would do something, the other would do something of equal workload. Overall, I think I did really well on this project, not only in the work I did, but communication and teamwork as well.